Total Points	16
Comments	The problem is researched, but this is not transferred to the problem statement. The statement should be short and nail the problem. It should not detail the scenario or rephrase the broad challenge statement made available. For a problem statement, you need to analyze your research insights and then you must ask yourselves what are the real pain point(s) behind this problem? And you need to take into account the youngsters perspective. What are their pain points that the KJR (or a similar NGO) in its position could offer a solution for? The problem statement should focus on the target audience and present the real problem (= the pain point(s)). Furthermore, a problem statement should not include the solution or indications of it. You also seem to have uploaded an image that is not viewable – please upload it again.

Assignment 3: Grade 8%: max. 80 points

Feedback to storyboard	no feedback to storyboard documented 0 points	You have documented feedback collected using your storyboard. 6 points	You have collected feedback for your storyboard and you have refined your storyboard. 8 points	excellent 10 points
Press Release	no press release 0 points	An imaginary press release is available. 12 points	Your imaginary press release is well written using the guidelines provided in the workshop. 16 points	excellent 20 points
FAQs	no FAQs 0 points	Your wiki shows a short list of FAQs. 12 points	good list of FAQs 16 points	comprehensive list of FAQs, all relevant questions are answered 20 points

Total Points	70
Comments	The empathy map lacks the pain/gains that are essential to identify opportunities. The storyboard tells a compelling story. There is a page on storyboard feedback with a short documentation on it. We suggest you conduct further user interviews to acquire feedback on the idea – use the storyboard and first version of the prototype. You have a good list of questions, rather comprehensive, but the answers are too short to fulfill the objective of the exercise to make the idea more concrete by pretending this is a real FAQ after launch of the APP.
